

Our Playscape in Noordse Park

What really matters in life can be so simple: to be outside and enjoy the weather, wander around, play and have a chat with people on your way. In growing cities like Utrecht, more and more free space is used for building - thus expanding the amount of bricks, asphalt and concrete.

In the community playground of Noordse Park we invite our neighbourhood to create an attractive meeting place where we all can spend our leisure time. Outside, off line and... in touch with urban nature.

Together we create a green oasis for children, adults, birds and bees. We started a community garden. Later we added small plots where parents and their children learn to grow their own food. This year our playground gets a complete makeover. It will be transformed into a real playscape with all kinds of natural elements. Our way to slow climate change, protect biodiversity and last but not least: create a happy place for us all. Welcome in Noordse Park!
